Standard 5: Uses the general skills and strategies of the reading process

- Uses phonetic and structural analysis techniques, syntactic structure, and semantic context to decode unknown words (e.g., vowel patterns, complex word families, syllabication, root words, affixes)
- Use a variety of context clues to decode unknown words (e.g., draws on earlier reading, read ahead)
- Use word reference materials (e.g., glossary, dictionary, thesaurus) to determine the meaning, pronunciation, and derivations of unknown words
- Understands level-appropriate reading vocabulary (e.g., synonyms, antonyms, homophones, multi-meaning words)

Two Words in One

Some words look just like two separate words that have been pushed together. That's exactly what they are, and they're called compound words.

Directions: Read the statements below. Underline the compound word in each.

1. The largest waterfall in the world is Victoria Falls in Africa.
2. The scorekeeper accidentally awarded the home team with two extra points.
3. Susan wore a long evening gown, and I wore a turtleneck sweater.
4. We took the rowboat out on the lake and fished for hours.
5. Mom and Irene watched Isaac play with the other children in the local park's sandbox.

Directions: Spell each of these compound words three times.

1. railroad _____
2. playground _____
3. spaceship _____
4. lunchtime _____
5. hairbrush _____

Activity: Create five new sentences on the lines below. In each sentence, use at least two compound words.

1. _____
2. _____
3. _____
4. _____
5. _____

A Bad Review

Directions: Read the following review of a new computer product. Use the mini dictionary to help you fill in the missing words.

modem — a piece of equipment that allows computers to communicate over telephone lines criticism — finding problems with or fault malfunction — not working correctly

doodad — a gadget, usually one that's worthless cumbersome — bulky; of a shape or size that is awkward
